Alex's personal philosophy is based upon empowering families through individual choice, continuity and holistic maternity care, underpinned by strong research. She is dedicated to promoting labour and birth as a natural, normal transition from pregnancy to parenthood and aims to support all women in achieving a fulfilling birth experience. Alex has completed specialist post-registration training in maternity aromatherapy and reflexology and offers this in your own home, both for relaxation and for the relief of various discomforts in pregnancy and after the birth of your baby. She is also trained to offer moxibustion, as an aid to turning a breech baby to head first. She currently works as an Independent Midwife and is happy to travel up to an hour from her home base in Bolton.
